

SPS Physician Spotlight

A communication targeted to physicians in the SPS Network

Please distribute to all physicians in your organization.

Dear SPS Physicians,

Dr. Rustin Morse, Vice President of Quality and Chief Quality Officer, Children's Health, conducted an interview with Dr. Josh Koch, Medical Director of Critical Care Services, Children's Health, where they discussed the physicians' role in rapid response teams.

Drs. Morse and Koch shared when these teams should be called, how physicians should respond when realizing the need for help, how to maintain a positive safety culture when caring for less critically ill patients, and how to ensure the concerns are appropriately addressed prior to dismissing the rapid response team. We encourage you to listen to their incredible 8-minute podcast by clicking the link on the right.

The session topics include, but are not limited to, employee/staff safety (including a personal safety story), human factors and ergonomics, patient and family engagement, healthcare disparities, Safety 2 concepts, hospital-acquired conditions, and safety culture.

You won't want to miss this important learning session! To register, please reach out to your hospital's SPS Quality Leader or Project Manager for more details. We look forward to seeing you there! As always, please email ochsps@cchmc.org if you have any questions.
